REMARKS:

At Harry Rowen's suggestion, I've taken a look at the current proposal for an Economic Advisory Board.

1. The public-sector members of this board are our customers. We deal with these people and their agencies every day. If we don't already have a feel for what they need and what they think of our products, we need a lot more than two meetings a year.

2. I confess to not fully understanding what role you want PFIAB to play. But wouldn't a PFIAB committee do the trick?
